2.3 Seat Allocations

2.3.1 Complimentary Seat allocations

Complimentary Seat allocations will be there for FIFA, Commercial Affiliates and other stakeholders that will be part of the competition. The allocation of seats will be align to the Ticketing Rights Agreement and should include, at least, the following groups:

- (i) FIFA;
- (ii) Host Association;
- (iii) Participating Member Association;
- (iv) Non-participating Member Association;
- (v) Commercial Affiliates, Branded Licensees (if applicable), Media Rights licensees and Broadcast Rights Agencies;
- (vi) Media representatives

These requirements will be managed by FIFA and will be reflected on the FIFA Ticketing Requirements for the event. Other than the complimentary tickets this could also include “right to purchasable” for the above groups. This includes ticket type (complimentary or purchasable), ticket category, and corresponding quantities per above stakeholder.

2.3.2 General Sale to Public Seat allocations

2.3.2.1 Estadio Nacional

At the National Stadium in San José, the VIP tribune will be located on the west stand. Fans will be seated in Category 1 and Category 2 tickets will be located both in the East and the West stands. Category 3 tickets are located in both north and south stands.

Due to the experience of the previous FIFA world cup played in Costa Rica, the expectation is to have a high demand for tickets for the matchdays where the home team will be playing.

2.3.2.2 Estadio Morera Soto

At Estadio Alejandro Morera Soto in Alajuela, VIP will be allocated on the west stand. Category 1 will be located on the East stand and Category 2 on the South stand, this will provide over 4000 seats available.

3 Ticket Types

3.1 Price of ticket categories

Prices will remain the same for all the tournament phases, the objective of this is to facilitate promotion and communication. It is foreseen that the higher demand for tickets will be for the matchdays where the host country will be involved, so there is no need to elevate the price for the final stages of the tournament as the presence of the team is not guaranteed.

The decision regarding the price has been made to keep the tickets accessible to all public, taking into account the possibility of people having reduced purchasing power coming out from the Covid-19 crisis. The prices will match the regular ticket prices for local league matches and are not far from the prices of the previous FIFA World Cup held in Costa Rica in 2014 when prices were between $6 and $14.

On the topic of COVID, based on the latest government measures announced mass public events can operate at 100% capacity level starting on March 2022. Anyhow, this will be constantly monitored to adjust any details needed in case the pandemic provisions change in the country.

If required by the public authorities due to the Pandemic, other measures could be considered regarding the number of people allowed in the stands and the social distancing between them. For example, fans had to be spread out so that no more than one seat in four is occupied and every second row is empty. Any approach on this matter will be consulted and agreed upon with FIFA.

3.2 Type of Tickets

3.2.1 Complimentary Tickets

Complimentary Tickets will show 'Complimentary' value and are allocated to VIP and FIFA Constituent Groups who have contractual complimentary ticket rights that will be given without any payment arrangement.

3.2.2 Purchasable Tickets

Purchasable Tickets include a "Price" face value and are specifically allocated to the General Public and FIFA Constituent Groups who have contractual purchasable ticket rights. There will be 4 types of purchasable tickets:

- a. Single tickets: a ticket that will be bought for one matchday, therefore any ticket will be valid for the 2 matches being played on the same day at the same venue.
- b. Venue specific (Team package): the name of the package could be considered, the objective is to allow fans to buy tickets for all of the 3 matches of their favorite team in the first round. Especially in the case of the Host country national team, this will be helpful to guarantee before the start of the tournament several ticket sales for all of the first 3 matchdays of the group phase at Estadio Nacional, to lower the impact that negative results could have in the ticket sales as the performance of the teams is one of the main drivers for purchasing behavior.

- c. Group tickets (Vamos juntas package): with the official call of the tournament as a brand this package will try to encourage fans to come to the matches in groups and to bring more youth girls and families around the tournament to be inspired. This will allow special prices for group tickets of 5 people for a single match, targeted for clubs, families, groups of young friends. Even though the target is to have more women, this will be difficult to track on sales, so it could be branded and reinforced in the message as “Vamos Juntas” but while apply to any group.
- d. Accessibility Tickets: based on the infrastructure of stadiums these tickets are located on the Cat. 1 ticket price in both stadiums, it is an area where both the access and the space will be allocated specifically to this group. Both areas in the stadium will have space for Wheelchairs and Easy Access space.
